

Pen Sketch

I am a boy who is a little bit shy but still confident, my family members love me and taught me the basic manners. I am good at history, English, politics but not at math or physics. I really like the table tennis and badminton. I think life is a painting that cannot be redrawn, so I will appreciate every part of this painting, whether I like it or not. I am a person who has the courage to challenge myself and is willing to try to explore new fields. At the same time, I have strong resilience, can bear hardships, and never give up. I am currently a Master student [REDACTED] [REDACTED] I study International Relations, I really enjoy the international working environment so that I dream to find a job in international organizations, that's why I choose the major. My favourite thing to do is reading news that let me get aware what happen in this world. I think I am a quiet and elegant person, good at getting along with others and learning from others' strengths. I think the relationship with my partner and children is very important, which makes my life more meaningful.

Goodwill Message

Dear lucky one,

Welcome to this new world. You are welcome to a world of diversity. You can communicate and make friends with different people from all over the world and help those who are in trouble. I hope you can contact different people and try to accept and respect the differences of others, so to build a harmonious world!

My third master's major is human rights. Human rights include many specific rights, including those of vulnerable groups, such as sexual minorities. For most couples, the risk of infertility is minimal, but for sexual minorities, none of them can get their children without the help of sperm banks or egg banks. This is one of the reasons why I participated in sperm donation. I hope you can help more families who can't have their own children to realize their dreams in a similar way when you grow up. Your kindness is the new hope of their whole family!
