Hi there, I'm a relaxed, easy going and creative person who loves a challenge in life. I had a happy and fun childhood growing up with my older sister. I love playing all sports especially football and my dad used to take me to watch football on a Saturday afternoon - great times. I also love to travel and explore the planet, seeing the world's natural beauty and fascinating history, while meeting new and interesting people from all different cultures. I love listening to all music old and new; but my favourites are Rock, Indie and Classical. I love all kinds of drama and visiting the theatre and cinemas, but my favourite types are Sci Fi and Police dramas as I used to watch lots police programmes with my mum when I was a kid. I do like to read books but for some unknown reason I rarely ever finish reading them. My other interests are Cars and Motorbikes and I enjoy taking my nephew to shows in the summertime. I love looking after my dogs as I am a big animal lover. I am not a religious person, but I am spiritual in my thoughts.

Hello, I hope you are enjoying life and are doing your best in your chosen path with your education and career. I decided to become a donor because I love to help people when I can, as it gives me a great sense of pride knowing I could help your parents. I regularly help by giving to many different charities and donating blood. I love my small and brilliant family and hope if I am chosen I can help anyone who needs help on their journey to a joyful family life. The only advice I can give is always try your best and do what you want to do while enjoying your life. All the best for you and your family.
