Growing up I was a quiet child always into my books, drawings and making crafts. My mom encouraged my creative side a lot as she is quite creative herself and we would spend a lot of time constructing doll houses out of cardboard, furniture out of ice lolly sticks, pressing flowers or simply painting. I was a good student overall, I was focused on my studies and although I didn't have any pressure from my parents' side to be good at school, I took it very seriously. My favourite subjects were English, foreign languages and art. And least favourite and the one I wasn't great at was MATHS! Although I was raised Christian, I had mixed feelings about religion in my adolescent years. Now I've found it's a way to cope and give hope for a lot of people and even myself, I have become somewhat spiritual in the last few years. I would identify myself as agnostic as I do believe in the power of the Universe and its magnetism. My personality is quite emotional which I consider as an advantage because it allows me to relate and therefore connect to other people, give them advice, and guide them or simply be there to hold their hand. Also being like this I believe has helped me in my career too, I am a Product Manager – which means I always try to get the best out of people which I believe I am doing so by connecting with them on a personal level. I would say I am relaxed but also determined and very adaptable. I love being creative too; I enjoy DIYs, interior design, and fashion – always have a project in mind – sewing, painting, upcycling a piece of furniture etc.

What is important in life for me is my family, my friends and those close to me. I firmly believe in the power of boosting and uplifting others every chance possible. I think it's important to let them know that not only do you love them but you're also rooting for them. Most of the time people need to hear it. As humans, we need to look out for each other and try to make the world a better place by doing so. This is also why I chose to be a part of this and help deliver you into this world!

Hello! I hope that you've had a great time on Earth so far. You have been the most wanted gift for so long and now your parents finally have you - I hope you have been nice to them! Family is the most important bond in life, be kind to your folks and always make time for them. As I am typing this, I remember I really should go see my mum soon! I know your family loves you infinitely and would give anything in the world to see you happy, at the end of the day they'll be the ones you can always rely on for a shoulder to cry on, pick you up from wherever you missed the last train at, pay for the concert you've always wanted to go to ... there is no escape from them •
Please know there's no limits as to what you can achieve and always welcome every challenge with open arms, as these are the experiences from which we grow and become better people. Do what you love and love what you do. Look after yourself and others but know when to prioritise yourself and your needs. I am sure you will turn out to be an amazing person!

I love children and hoping to start a family of my own one day. If you ever decide you'd like to connect or meet, please reach out to me. I would be very happy to find out more about your life and what you have been up to – it would be a real joy.
