

Profile

Appearance

I am very tall, and have short dark brown hair. I am of medium build, and am usually bearded. I have a characteristic deep loud voice.

Family & Background

I grew up [REDACTED] where my parents still live (they have just retired). I have one brother who is [REDACTED] younger than me. My Mum has a sister who lives in [REDACTED] (near where my Mum grew up), and my Dad has a sister, who has [REDACTED] daughters and is now a grand-mother.

Education and Profession

I studied Maths at university, and I was then able to spend a year working abroad teaching Maths. Since returning, I have become a career in the transport industry, and I'm currently a consultant focussing mainly on rail. A less technical description of what I do is that I spend my time predicting how many people are going to travel by train in the future.

Hobbies and Interests

I love playing and watching sport, especially cricket. I also really enjoy travelling, and have spent time in six different continents. I am very into food, especially very spicy curries. I am in the process of buying a digital piano, so that I can start playing the piano again (having learnt when I was a child).

Personality

I am a fun-loving character, who doesn't take life too seriously. I work very hard – I think it's important to commit to what you do – but at the same time I love spending my evenings playing sport or eating and drinking with friends. I am an outgoing type, who doesn't like filling in forms or bureaucracy.
